

The Way for the Country to Become Prosperous

One July day in 2015, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited a research institute.

Looking round the institute with pleasure, he appreciated that the institute had been built so as to provide researchers with good conditions for work and living while giving a visual glimpse into the Party's policy on attaching importance to science and technology and to talents.

He said that the country could become prosperous only when we made the revolution with a correct viewpoint and attitude towards science and talents.

He gave the officials an understanding that today, when science and technology play a decisive role in social progress and the development of the strength, the economy and culture of a country is decided by talents, the way for the country to become prosperous was to establish a climate of attaching importance to science and talents.
