

The Most Important Issue

One April day in 2019, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the Samjiyon Potato Farina Factory.

Looking at a newly-installed equipment in a workshop, he asked its officials how they would deal with production and until when they could improve the quality of products.

After listening to them, he stressed repeatedly: No matter how good the equipment is, it would be impossible to produce quality products if the level of skills of its employees is not high enough. Officials should enhance the level of skills of employees at any cost so as to turn out quality products on their own.

His instruction made them realize once again that production of quality products could be ensured not only by modern equipment but by the employees well versed in the latest sci-tech knowledge.
